TIMARON

CLASS OF 1960

Motto: Our footsteps are guided through His power.

OUR THEME—FOOTSTEPS

Our theme has many meanings, many moods. It is solemn as we think of the motto chosen by our class, the class of 1960. It is serious as we, standing on the threshold, consider the responsibilities of life. Our theme has its lighter moments, too, for there have been carefree, happy steps during the last four years. We have danced at our parties and have run upon the playing courts and fields. With laughing good-byes to our friends, we have sped to class down the corridors of M.H.S., willing, as we were, to take up the task, yet appreciating the sociability of the moment.

And so . . . we give you our theme—FOOTSTEPS—solemn, serious, happy, or carefree as the time and occasion demand.

DEDICATION

MISS MARY ANACKI

"Tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow" lie ahead, but unlike Macbeth we have a bright future before us as we have much to offer the adult world due to the efforts of such dedicated teachers as Miss Mary Anacki. Under her guidance we have been prepared to meet this future with a fuller understanding and appreciation of the English language. Giving countless hours, she has added that note of perfection and so has helped to make our senior play a success. Therefore, the class of 1960 proudly dedicates its yearbook to a devoted teacher and a concerned friend.

"I have a lamp by which my feet are guided."

MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1960:

On graduation day each of you has an appointment with the future. It is a date which ushers in the period toward which your lives thus far have been largely a preparation As you go forth following what may sometimes appear to be the footsteps of others, remember always that your future belongs solely to you. We who have worked with you sincerely hope that we have helped you realize your individual worth and your future potential.

May you find happiness and bring credit to your family, your school, and your community.

Sincerely,

STANLEY KRUSZYNA, Principal

Throughout our high school years our footsteps have been carefully guided by both parents and teachers. Now, as we approach the end of our senior year, we must each guide ourselves into a chosen field; but we will always remember our wonderful years at M.H.S.: the friends, and the events.

Your yearbook, the 1960 TIMARON, has been edited for the purpose of recalling all the memories of your high school years. We hope this purpose will be achieved.

CLASS PROPHECY

TIME: 1970

PLACE: Battis Field, M.H.S.

SETTING: Living room of a large ant hill, where a group of ants are discussing the accomplishments of the members of the famous Class of '60.

FIRST ANT: Time certainly does fly. Why, it seems like just yesterday that they were yelling and stamping right upon us on the football field. I can't remember a class that could shake our walls as much as they could.

SECOND ANT: I've heard that some of the best players are coaching. Bill Caswell, Richard Allen, Denny Finneran, and Jim Smith are now preparing teams that will completely demolish our little ant hills all over again.

THIRD ANT: My cousin, Hepzibah ant, who owns that new split-level ant hill between the Junior High and Elementary School, told me that she saw Sally Anne Dunlea, Betty Mercer, Marjorie Kinsman, Grace McNearney, Yvonne McNeice, and Anne Boucher conducting classes for the future members of M.H.S. It seems as though the annual Music Festival is again in Middleboro, and Betty Bois, Patty Maranville, Cynthia Teeling, and Karl Arenburg are conducting their own high school bands. Most every ant hill in the area was ruined when the bands assembled together to play a series of Jazz marches by the famed conductor, James A. Fardy.

FOURTH ANT: I hitched a ride into town yesterday in Richard Moskoff's slow wheels. He was on his way to the new super market, Foodarama. I saw quite a few of the members of the Class of '60 shopping there. I guess that class really sticks together. As I entered, I saw Jeanne Stuart checking out and Janice Grishey shopping for her family. I've never seen such a beautiful store; Ronald Keith was responsible for the design. Working with him were Edward Gerrior and James Maloof, who invented a push-button dial selection system of shopping. There was a large crowd milling around the drug counter. Everyone was anxious to buy Everett Lacerda's new wonder drug, which is a new medicine with the slogan, "No hurta with Lacerda." Nurse Harriet Hopkins was demonstrating the benefits derived from the marvelous pain killer. I had to leave by the back door because it was so crowded. Lined up outside was the dairy truck from Richard Dainis', Leonard Condon's, and Anthony Pattee's milk farms.

FIRST ANT: New businesses are certainly flourishing under the management of the Class of '60. Remember that new beauty center next to the food store? On the first floor in the men's department was Gerald Marshall, introducing barber shop basketball. The second floor consisted of hairdressers and beauticians. Gail Lewis, Anne Gillis, Pat Pina, Ann Taylor, and Sheila Walsh were lazily working in the hairdressing department while beauty advisers Laura Wright, Elizabeth Prescott, Joan Minnick, Judy Wright, Linda Guidaboni, and Sandra Howard were discussing the various problems of their customers. On the third floor I came across Edna Eccleston and Martha Wilmot modeling a wardrobe designed by Claudette Cameron. Fashion artists Patricia Maddigan and Sherrill Flanders were deeply engrossed in catalogue designing so I was able to pass by unnoticed. Vivian Beuthner was lining up the fabrics for the new fall collection. Walking through the waiting room, I noticed a magazine cover illustrated by Harold Elliott. A new short story by prize-winning writer Donna Gangone was featured in that particular issue.

THIRD ANT: It's not just around Middleboro that the Class of '60 has congregated. Why, my uncle, Toby Termite, who has been traveling most of his life in the parasite profession, says he's encountered many members of the class in all corners of the world. Just the other month Roddy Berry almost stepped on him while boarding a plane in Afghanistan. While busily dictating diplomatic notes to his secretary, Martha Tinsley, he almost neglected to notice airline hostesses Donna Falconeiri, Marie Vinal, and the pilot, Frank Robinson.

Last year during my summer vacation I visited my aunt, Eskimo Ant, in Alaska. Five members of the Class of '60 have organized a monopoly on the timber and fur industries. Forest experts John Harrison, Joseph Mackiewicz, Lawrence Pink, and John Burke along with fur millionaire Stephen Battis have brought the name of Middleboro above the Arctic Circle.

Flying back to San Francisco hidden in a brief case, I managed to peek out and see airline hostesses Marcia Wing and Carol Tanguay trying to calm the passengers as we flew through a storm. However, we landed safely due to the efforts of Ronald Remillard, the tower operator at the airport.

Much to my surprise I found that I was in the brief case of Dr. Mark Gibbons, who was to be guest speaker at the Medical Convention. His topic was "Do-It-Yourself Brain Surgery." Leland Orlov was in charge of the veterinarian section. Michal Woodruff, dental hygienist, lectured on "Chickens Have Teeth, Too." Nurses Christina Niedzwiecki and Carolyn Sukus were compiling research information for their hospital.

San Francisco harbor was full of Navy ships. Richard Bennett, Peter Stewart, Robert Jackson, Harold Caswell, William Murdock, and David Lemmo were directing secret Naval operations in the harbor, while Betty Hollis was efficiently organizing new recruits for the Waves.

FIRST ANT: Did you hear those jets nearby last night? Well, my uncle, the flying ant, told me that John Cordeiro and Anthony Nunes were trying to break the cross country flying record. Darn near caused another cave-in. That Class of '60 is sure active.

FOURTH ANT: Yes, sir! They even control most of the Army. Generals David Demers, David Costa, Thomas Kelley, Robert Denson, and John Smith are being considered as candidates for Chief of Staff.

FIRST ANT: That class has people doing everything. Dr. Guy Davis of the Mount Palamar observatory has developed a new theory of relativity, working with Professors Stanwood Sparrow and Waldemar Ulich, in which they believe they have found where infinity ends.

SECOND ANT: Why not!

FIRST ANT: The reverends Richard Burr and Paul Anderson are now in charge of missionary activities in Uganda. They often work in collaboration with the noted psychologist Eleanor Walker.

FOURTH ANT: When I was in Africa last year with the Navy, our band played at their settlement. It seemed like old times because Ronny Vaughn, Brian Green, and Robert Kingston played in the Navy Band.

THIRD ANT: Well, I just came back from New York, and it seems as though the Class of '60 controls a good portion of Wall Street. Barry Berman, Kenneth Shaw, and Carolyn Wright were busily engaged in buying and selling companies; and Charles Smith was arranging for the purchase of a new oil refinery for his gas station chain.

I saw Ann Freidenfeld, Diane DiBurgo, Peggy DuCharme, Marie DiPalma, Sandra Williams, Rose Gisetto, Sandra Bellerive, and Marilyn Hollis planning appointments for their successful young bosses. Legal secretaries Linnea Nyberg and Jean Weygand were preparing for a busy day in court.

FIRST ANT: The Class of '60 even has three world travelers. As far as I know, William Marzelli, Gene Turney, and Harry Washburn are still on their extended trip.

SECOND ANT: I certainly hope their luck lasts. They were really a polite group. I was never stepped on by any one of them.

And so as the blazing sun sets on the purple horizon of Middleboro, the sandy ant hills on Battis Field close up for the night with nary a casualty from the toes of 1960's class. The insect population of M.H.S. drifts into slumber, but the illustrious Class of '60 goes on.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

In September, 1956, a train with graduates from Bates Junior High School arrived on Track 60—destination M.H.S. As our train arrived at M.H.S., one of the highest mountains of our young lives, we began to prepare for our upward climb. We disembarked and the shuffling of feet at the base of the mountain created a scene of confusion until our class officers were chosen. Leading our group was Richard Burr, our class president; followed by Anne Gillis, vice-president; Eleanor Walker, secretary; and Rod Berry, clutching the money tree. As we struggled upward bearing the signs of weariness from our new adventure, we were cheered on by our newly formed cheerleading squad. Donna Falconeiri led it and was joined by Linnea Nyberg, Peggie DuCharme, Anne Gillis, Betty Mercer, Christine Niedzwiecki, Ann Freidenfeld, and Mary Medeiros. As we gripped tighter toward the site of our goal, we paused long enough to congratulate Richard Burr and Eleanor Walker for having received the Silver "M" award.

We were now reaching the higher levels of the mountain as upperclassmen. As Sophomores, we again elected Richard Burr, Anne Gillis, Eleanor Walker, and Rod Berry for our class officers. The highlight of this year was our Christmas dance, "Winter Wonderland," which was a great success and for which we owe our our thanks to Miss Whitty, our class advisor. This year we selected Marjorie Kinsman and Marie DiPalma to represent our class in the Silver "M" society.

As we mounted the peak entering our Junior year, we were the first to wear the standard class ring which was designed by an M.H.S. classmate, Robert Holgren. We experienced many happy times this year with Miss O'Neil, our advisor, and our officers: Richard Burr, Anne Gillis, Linnea Nyberg, and Ann Freidenfeld. The theme of our prom was "Rhapsody in Blue" and with the qualified help of Mrs. Matheson and Mr. Brady, it was a great success. A big event in the spring was the induction of some of our classmates into the National Honor Society. Lucille Francescon and Sheila Plissey were chosen for Silver "M." This year also marked the success of the debating club with Mr. James, the advisor. The Cross Country team suffered no defeats with the assistance of Harold Caswell, Richard Dainis, Barry Berman, Ronald Keith, and Ed Gerrior. Under Mr. Churchill and Mr. Nelson's patient direction, the choir, band, orchestra, and dance band, each of which had many members from our class, practiced hours in preparation for concerts and other musical events.

Now that we had reached the pinnacle as Seniors, our class found bigger and newer experiences. The Lakeville students left our climbing party to attend Apponequet Regional High School this year. Richard Burr, Anne Gillis, Marie DiPalma, and Ann Freidenfeld were elected as our mountain guides. At the annual Silver "M" tapping, Patty Maranville, Yvonne McNiece, and Edna Eccleston received membership. More honors were given as Anne Gillis was crowned "Miss Football Queen" at the successful Coronation Dance which our class sponsored. Our athletes gave us a great deal of spirit in forwarding our quest to the top of the mountain, under the direction of Bill Caswell and Dave Costa, our football captains. Another instance in which we reached the top was in basketball with Tiger Allen and Gerry Marshall as our captains. Our girls, also, actively participated in field hockey and basketball. We want to give a great deal of credit to our advisor, Mr. King, the business office, and the Yearbook Staff under the direction of Miss Wetherell, who spent hours of their time preparing the supplies and materials to enable us to reach the zenith. Our play, "Father of the Bride," was a complete success — thanks to the direction of Miss Anacki. As our Senior year came to a close, we all participated in the annual Senior week programs: Class night, Class trip, Baccalaureate service, and the Class banquet. On our graduation night, we all looked back down the high school mountain and reminisced over all the fun, hard work, and adventure that brought us to this celestial-like pinnacle.
